STRAIGHT TALK

“The people’s acceptance of the thieving money system is due to their greed more than ignorance, for they imagine that the bankers will allow them to share in the thievery.”

ECONOMICS SIMPLIFIED

AN HONEST MAN

It is said you can’t cheat an honest man. The insinuation is that a cheater is more likely to be cheated, and a thief is more likely to fall prey to thieves and con artists.

In ancient Greece, a man named Diogenes walked about carrying a lamp in the daytime to make a point. He said he was looking for an honest man. It seems he couldn’t find many ... if any. I believe his point was that the Greek system was fostering dishonesty among the people.

Diogenes was born in the Greek colony of Sinope, Turkey around 400 BC. His father was a banker, thus Diogenes was acquainted with the money business ... which may have been one cause of his cynicism. Apparently he developed a distaste for politics and banking, and at some point in his life he was exiled from the city for defacing (with a chisel) the coin currency.

Later he moved to Athens and adopted a life’s goal of challenging established customs and values. He was sort of an iconoclast. He argued that instead of being troubled about the true nature of evil, people merely relied on customary interpretations (today it might be called “political correctness”).

By most accounts, Diogenes was a distasteful fellow, insulting and crude. I suppose he and I have a couple traits in common.

MONEY AND HONESTY

Diogenes may have over stated his cause. But his accusation that men of his day had become dishonest can certainly be applied to our world today ... particularly when it comes to dealing with money matters. Although man’s greed and selfishness today may be camouflaged and covered up in part, when it comes to money matters these traits become more obvious.

Hundreds of books and courses are available on the subject of money and the systems of banking and economics ... for both personal and public application. Much criticism has been published about money systems and banking. Some of the villainous motives and methods of bankers have been described and exposed in great measure. However, in terms of America’s over all economic problems there is one aspect that nearly always gets passed over. That aspect is the lack of honesty ... not just in the realm of banking, but in the private and personal lives of banking’s victims ... the common people who are getting the shaft and don’t know how it is happening.

According to the premise (“you can’t cheat an honest man”) – and I believe this is basically sound – the fact that bankers and politicians are taking Americans to the cleaners every day suggests that something is making us too easily robbed. Otherwise the bankers and politicians wouldn’t have such an easy time taking advantage of us.

Thus, HONESTY IS THE MISSING INGREDIENT in the money equation in America. Honesty would, on its own, cure most of America’s money problems. The first thing honesty would do for Americans is that it would enable their minds to understand theft and how it is happening to them.

In other words, if Americans weren’t trying to steal from each other, their minds and consciences would heal and become more functional. As the meaning of theft became apparent to them, they would also learn the meaning of honesty. They would begin to see that all of America’s money/economic problems stem from basic dishonesty. Theft and deceit breed confusion and blindness. Thieves become blind to thievery.

Usury is unjust gain. The hope of getting something for nothing is a basic evil that Americans have been taught to love. The love of this evil leads to many more evils. Today, Americans are not only awash in these evils, they are blind and deaf to solutions that could work. They complain about banks and politicians stealing their money ... while they, themselves, scheme to take advantage of others via banking and Wall Street (stocks & bonds).

The idea of money or stocks producing money, is usury, and it is forbidden in God’s law ... except as a tactic of war against an enemy. The principle is this: if it is permitted to kill someone (as in war), then it is permitted to steal from him. But it is never acceptable to steal from a brother: a citizen in Christ’s Reign.

Greed is a tough nut to crack ... and the greedy are not likely to admit that they are complicit with thieves. As I said, money has a way of bringing out the worst in people.

“GAIN”

In modern vernacular the idea of “profit” has replaced the old idea of “gain.” Biblical prosperity is based on “gain.” “Gain” implies production and growth. Honest production comes by honest work; by honest enterprise, and by the natural growth of crops. To profit from lending money, or to under-pay for labor, or to over-charge for goods or services ... this all is usury. It is theft and is against the law of God.

Godly “gain” comes from production without cheating or shorting anyone. When a farmer plants a hundred pounds of seeds, then reaps a ton of seeds at harvest, he has “gained” 1900 pounds of produce. Allowing for expenses of hired labor, tools, and other things necessary to accomplish production, this reveals his true “gain.”

Usury, on the other hand, is unearned profit without labor or risk. Usury (interest) on money, for example, is theft by cheating (stealing from) the debtor. Money cannot produce money, and therefore cannot produce true gain. Therefore, to profit from usury is theft.

The US economy is built on debt and usury, and therefore it is an economy of theft, debt and deceit. When you study the US money system you are studying theft, debt and deceit. All who accept and believe in the US money system are accepting and believing in theft (usury) and putting themselves in opposition to God. This brings hurt upon themselves as well as upon their victims.

The ingeniousness of the U.S. banking system is that it tricks its victims into actually believing that usury is good for them. “American pride” and patriotism is a contagion of stupidity and depravity.

GODLY SIMPLICITY

God’s laws for a money system are not difficult to understand ... except for people who listen to economists and politicians. Economists and politicians intentionally deceive and confuse people about money ... because it is to their advantage to do so. Deceived and confused people are less likely to identify the liars and thieves ... so the liars and thieves can continue without being exposed.

The simplicity of God’s laws concerning money is that we are not to steal from one another or cheat one another. That’s pretty simple.

Stealing and cheating are forbidden. This simple rule preserves freedom and pleases God. Learn how to identify theft and cheating and you become part of the solution instead of part of the problem. That is how simple it is.

But where do we go to learn to identify thieves and cheaters? Certainly not to universities. They teach students to immerse themselves into the Beast System and get jobs with banks, law firms, corporations and government.

No ... the only source I know that will teach us the simple rules of being honest, and how to prosper without hurting your friends, is the Bible. Basic honesty is the rule ... and God explains it very simply in his law.

You shall not steal, neither deal falsely, neither lie one to another. (Lev. 19:11)

The rich rules over the poor, and the borrower is servant to the lender. (Prov. 22:7)

Owe no man anything, but to love one another: for he that loves another has fulfilled the law. (Rom. 13:8)

You shall not lend upon usury to your brother; usury of money, usury of food, usury of any thing that is lent upon usury:

To a foreigner (an enemy) you may lend upon usury; but to your brother you shall not lend upon usury: that Yahweh your God may bless you in all that you set your hand to in the land where you go to possess it. (De 23:19-20)

Dealing in usury with your brother is a personal sin against your brother, against God, and a sin against the land God provides for you. Usury, especially when it is institutionalized within a system of a country, and the many additional sins engendered by it, ruins our minds, destroys societies and impoverishes the people. This is why I understand what is happening today in America. Because of usury, and the many sins it engenders, the people and the nation are being destroyed ... and now the vultures are picking the bones.

THE WHEELS OF JUSTICE

“The wheels of justice grind slowly ... but they grind exceedingly fine.” —this quote is variously attributed to Sun Tzu, Longfellow and a number of others.

“We have watched our nation fall under the spell of liars, tyrants, warmongers, and thieves and we long for the day that justice will be served. We are both angry and sorry for those that have fallen under the spell and cannot see what is happening right in front of their eyes. How could it happen? But, I do believe that justice will be served.”

The United States, both the government and the citizens, have brought judgment upon themselves. To list the numerous crimes that Americans participate in, and invent daily, would require more space than is available in this publication.

Thus, America is in trouble now ... trouble that she does not understand and from which she cannot escape. The resultant judgement is happening before our eyes. America is falling apart, and there is nothing that can remedy it ... except direct intervention from God.

But then, that is a problem ... because God is the One who is bringing the judgment. People today hear confusing things from the TV and from their politicians. They hear about so-called “terrorism,” so-called “collapse of the economy,” so-called “inflation,” so-called “wars on terror,” so-called "recessions," so-called "recoveries," so-called quantitative easing," and bankers and politicians who are "trying to save the country from collapse." They hear these things daily ... and they cannot make sense of it or devise a workable plan to protect themselves from what is coming and what is already upon us as a nation.

24. ... You are the land that is not cleansed, nor rained upon in the day of indignation.

25. There is a conspiracy of her prophets in the midst thereof, like a roaring lion ravening the prey; they have devoured souls; they have taken the treasure and precious things; they have made her many widows in the midst thereof.

26. Her priests (politicians) have violated my law, and have profaned my holy things: they have put no difference between the holy and profane, neither have they shewed difference between the unclean and the clean, and have hid their eyes from my sabbaths, and I am profaned among them.

27. Her princes (leaders) in the midst thereof are like wolves ravening the prey, to shed blood, and to destroy souls, to get dishonest gain.

28. And her prophets (teachers) have daubed them with untempered mortar, seeing vanity, and divining lies to them, saying, Thus says the Lord Yahweh, when Yahweh has not spoken.

29. The people of the land have used oppression, and exercised robbery, and have vexed the poor and needy: yea, they have oppressed the stranger wrongfully.

Ez. 22:24-29

This pronouncement of God's judgment against Jerusalem in the 6th century BC fits America today. I am convinced that when the Israel people (our people) commit crimes and atrocities today that correspond to sins our ancestors did in the past, that the judgments that fell upon them in the past re-apply to the present. I believe that God's judgment is upon America today for these very reasons, and for the same causes ... the only difference is that the sins of America today are even greater in terms of scope and the misery they are causing.

Usury's victims become vulnerable because they think they can get their share of the booty, but they never get it ... just like they never get "the big win" at Las Vegas. The cards are stacked against them, but they are too stupid from greed to admit it. They think that the rich will let them in on the big con ... but the truth is that those at the top have no intention to let their victims get in on the loot.

The common people participate in petty theft without realizing it because it is called by other names ... e.g., "investing in stocks," "interest-bearing accounts," "CD's," etc.. But the rich (the super rich) did not get to the level they have achieved by the methods supposed by the sheep they are shearing. Most of the super rich are born into it. Others get adopted into it by the super rich that were already there. It is a big club, and the common people are not allowed to climb the ladder to join them. The common people are duped into participating in petty theft ... and that lets the super rich off the hook for their big thefts. A petty thief cannot point the finger at a big thief because they are both in the same crime. Only the size of the theft is different.

Americans are sold a version of "the American dream." They are trained from early in life to be petty thieves, and then spend their lives in an illusion ... thinking they are just one vote, or one lottery ticket away from getting their piece of the pie.

The economy is going berserk today, and is unexplainable within the terms that Americans have been given. It is one of the many, many evidences that the sins of Americans have made them blind, depraved, confused, and doomed. Only a remnant today have eyes to see and ears to hear. Only a remnant can see and hear what I am explaining. Only a remnant has God's hand upon them, protecting them from falling to the confusion and depravity that is washing over America.

DEBT SYSTEM

Today, the United States is in the biggest debt bubble in the history of the world. Total US debt as of last June actually exceeded 900% of GDP (the total production of the United States). That's somewhere in excess of $120 trillion. And this amount of debt will probably double before this decade is over.

Who can actually visualize what $120 trillion means? It is beyond reason ... a number that is so big it is meaningless. There is no way possible to pay off that debt.

How does a country get into debt that badly?

Well, as quickly as I can, and in as few words as I can arrange, I'm going to tell you ... in simple terms that are understandable. It is up to you to commit your mind to grasp what I'm telling you, and to accept the simple truth.

The United States Government, under the U.S. Constitution, is set up to be a debtor government perpetually. The rules as laid out from the outset have made it a debtor system. Under the Constitution, the government cannot be anything other than a debtor government.

Here's how it works.

Back at the beginning, in 1787, it was all calculated and instituted in a secret convention in Philadelphia. The "Founding Fathers" created a private club that excluded all Americans except a few elite movers and shakers (bankers and politicians). They stacked the proverbial deck so that the few elite would become super rich and powerful, while the whole body of U.S. citizens would become increasingly ignorant and enslaved ... and in classes lower than the bankers and politicians. If this sounds impossible to you, then you are naive.

It began like this: the Constitution Convention gave the federal government unlimited borrowing rights. Loans were to be made from international bankers. These loans were on the credit of the general public (U.S. Constitution: article 1, section 8). This was how the government was to be financed. Some of government finances could be acquired through taxation ... but as soon as the U.S. Treasury began producing its own money the outside sources of money for paying taxes dried up. It began to be a closed loop, where select bankers controlled it all.

Then in 1913 that loop hole was closed by the Federal Reserve Act, where no money could be created other than by one central bank – The Federal Reserve Bank – and all of it had to be borrowed. Thus, all money (including that collected as tax) originated from bank loans and therefore accrued to the debt of the country. Today there is no other way provided for the government to be financed except by borrowing the money they want. The government has no money of its own, and no way of acquiring money to finance its expenses except to borrow more and more from the FED, and create more and more debt. In other words, the government has no alternative but to increase its debt. It is the only way for it to exist. This suits the bankers just fine ... because every loan made to the government is at usury ... which makes the bankers fat and rich beyond avarice. And since wealth translates to political power, it is easy to see who controls the government, and thus the country.

When the government talks about a “budget,” or the term “balanced budget,” just remember they are using Orwellian terms. The government has no real budget. They spend what they want, and borrow what they want ... with no limits. When they agree to borrow enough to finance their budget they consider that “balanced.” Their debt never gets paid and never was intended to get paid. Government never pays its domestic debts because if it did it would eliminate nearly all money in circulation. All FED money is debt, and without debt the money wouldn't exist. When they talk about “balancing the budget” it is “double speak.”

The national debt, then, that keeps growing and growing ... because it cannot do otherwise ... is held out to the American public as a big problem. The people are led to believe that this debt must somehow be paid. But it is all a lie and has been from the beginning. The FED never expects to collect for the loans they make to the government. The government gives the FED and the banks the power to create money out of thin air. It costs the banks nothing, so the bankers lose nothing when the government's debt goes unpaid.

They knew full well that government debt would be unpayable because the only money available to government is borrowed money. And each loan at usury creates more debt upon more debt each year. This debt was never meant to be paid. It was, for all intents, free money (but they call it debt so they can keep their nefarious scheme secret).

The payoff for the banking industry is that all debt (money) and its usury continually accrue to them. They also knew that holding the national debt gave them leverage and advantages over the economy, and over the country ... and now over the whole world. The “national debt” – unlike debt in the private sector which has to be paid back – was simply a way to put blinders on the people while the bankers and politicians grew in power. These are the elite; the aristocracy; the nobility. This is the class of people who own and/or control EVERYTHING.

One more thing: the term “rich” doesn't adequately describe the state of these elite bankers. They are “super rich”; “super, super rich.” They are so rich, compared to the average American, that we cannot even fathom how rich and powerful the international bankers really are.

The richest 1% of them own and control more than the remaining 99% of the population. This is a fact. Think about this as I make my next point.

It is common for Americans to naively sit back in their relative comfort ... because they are allowed to have some possessions. But the truth is most Americans are surviving month to month and living an illusion of freedom. And as long as they get their meals, a few toys, and feel somewhat comfortable, they don't even think about the fact that there is a class of super, super rich that is way above them. Thus, the super, super rich see to it that the 99% have enough pacifiers so they feel comfortable. And they also see to it that the 99% don't get too smart. They do this by providing churches and public schools that teach confusion.

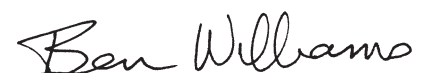

Meanwhile, the super, super rich amass their wealth and their power to the extent that they literally own or control EVERYTHING. That has been their agenda all along. Keep the masses comfortable so we won't notice or care that a class of elite, few in number, is rising so far above us that they control everything. It makes for a class divide that leaves us 99% as slaves to the 1%. It doesn't matter how comfortable the slaves happen to be ... they are slaves to the 1% who have complete power to oppress, depress, make war, or just eliminate large percentages of us anytime their psychopathic little minds feel the need to do so. And as long as the 99% continue to accommodate and feed the Beast, it will continue having its way with us.

ALL THOSE CONFUSING TERMS

Hedge funds, derivatives, selling short, naked shorting, recessions, double dip recessions, deflation, inflation, stagflation, call options, margin calls, bonds, balanced budget, bailout bonds, treasury securities, bubbles, etc., etc.. All these terms, and many more, are used by Wall Street junkies. They are confusing to the normal mind ... and rightly so, because they are terms of theft and deceit. They don't register with normal honest minds. It would take this whole publication to define them and explain them ... and it would still not help you to understand what is happening to America.

Americans are being trained to live in a theft and deceit society ... and it is killing us. To understand you only need to know that Wall Street, the bankers, and Washington DC all deal with theft and deceit. Don't get involved in their world and you'll fare well.

Pray for repentance in America,
