FEAR MONGERING FOR FUN AND PROFIT

THE AGE OF EASY PUBLISHING

In this age of the Internet, anyone can be a publisher. It costs nearly nothing – only the cost of a computer which most people have anyway. Gratuitous and impulsive nonsense is as easily published as scholarly, carefully researched studies that represent months of work. And, of course, outlandish nonsense published on the Internet gets attention ... and is believed and repeated by indiscriminate readers who are attracted to the bazaar more than to truth.

Don't get me wrong, I love the Internet. It is a tremendous resource that, if used wisely, is an unprecedented tool for education and information. But it also affords every fool the tools to show the world that he is a fool. A wise man acquires information and makes wholesome use of it. A fool acquires information and turns it into garbage. That is the freedom of speech and of the press, and it is a good thing.

I think it is great for people to be able to speak their minds ... even when they speak nonsense. I'm not against people freely speaking their minds. What I'm against is readers without discretion. The problem is not that people write foolish things. The problem is that people accept foolish writings. There is the critical linchpin. Foolish writers need foolish readers ... otherwise their writings go nowhere. We must always analyze and discriminate in our reading so that good literature is encouraged and bad literature is discouraged.

The volume of foolishness in the world has always been larger than the volume of wisdom. The road to confusion is much wider than the path to clarity. A writer with a good imagination can publish outlandish nonsense on the Internet and actually get hundreds or thousands of lazy readers to take it seriously. But separating truth from nonsense takes effort.

As I say, this is not bad. In fact it is good ... because it exposes the fools. To those who are observant it separates the men from the boys; the wheat from the chaff. And people with "eyes to see, and ears to hear" can sort it out. It is the way of God's judgment ... and it works well. His sheep hear HIS voice; fools do not. They hear foolishness.

FEAR AND FAITH

3. Strengthen you the weak hands, and confirm the feeble knees.

4. Say to them that are of a fearful heart, Be strong, fear not: behold, your God comes with vengeance, even God with a recompence; He will come and save you.

5. Then the eyes of the blind shall be opened, and the ears of the deaf shall be unstopped.

(Is. 35: 3-5)

10. Fear not; for I am with you: be not dismayed; for I am your God: I will strengthen you; yea, I will help you;

(Is. 41:10)

More than ever Americans need something to believe in. Faith (believing) is essential to possessing a sound mind. Without faith our brains don't function properly.

People have asked me how the blessings of God work in our lives. How does God bless us? I answer, God blesses in many ways that we take for granted. Small things, here and there ... things we don't even notice ... things that have profound effects upon our lives. God does this for his people every day of our lives. We need to be very sensitive to his blessings ... otherwise we fail to be thankful.

One of the most obvious ways God blesses us is by giving us faith ... and faith gives us sanity (a sound mind). The interesting thing about sanity is that those who don't have it don't know they don't have it. And those who do have it usually take it for granted and assume that everyone has it. It is ironic. Faith and sanity, two of the greatest blessings from God, seem to be hiding in plain sight. Those with "eyes to see, an ears to hear" must take note. They must notice and give thanks.

Without faith people become fearful, gullible and easy prey. The feeders at the top of the food-chain (the international bankers) enjoy an inexhaustible supply of willing blinded and gullible servants who voluntarily do their bidding. Ancient images of jesters and lickspittles running after the old British Royalty are laughable. But sadly, people are still doing the same things today unwittingly. They run after the bankers and politicians, emulating degenerate psychopaths who shape their society. The hens are scrambling all over the place serving and facilitating the foxes ... and the bird brains think they will get some benefit from their efforts. Meanwhile the foxes sit back and laugh ... and continue to dine sumptuously.

The politicians, the military, the bankers, the church leaders, the media owners, and those who shape public sentiment have convinced foolish Americans that it is to our advantage to finance and build the political and economic machine that uses us for its fuel.

Fear and lack of faith blinds people to obvious truths. The ability to see through this is not taught, but is a matter of character and ethics. It is hard-wired into the hearts and minds of those who believe in Christ. Only honest people value truth enough to seek it at great cost. Most people, in my life experience, I have found to be not that honest.

The faithless are blind and dead. They cannot sort truth from error ... and have no desire to do so. They have no interest in principles. Instead, their interest is in winning and manipulating as taught to them by Babylonian priests and educators. A man who has no interest in principles is a lost soul. Watch out for him ... for he will do you harm. And he certainly should not be looked to for advice.

The fear mongers who have the general public running around chasing their tails in fear are unscrupulous scoundrels. They have Americans "fleeing when no man is pursuing them" (Pr. 28:1) because they have lost their faith. In other words, Americans are chasing their tails; running scared because their minds are missing a part that is required. Their minds are incomplete: damaged. Their damaged minds cause them to give credence to devils and to prefer deception. They do not "prove all things," nor do they "hold fast to that which is good" (1 Thess. 5:21).

Faithlessness and fear cause people to bypass the work of research and proof. The faithless will never move mountain, nor with they find easy treasure without the work of digging it up. They want information without the effort of thinking. They want bread without the effort of harvesting and processing the wheat. They are faithless and defective.

Thus, Americans are confused and lost. They live on the lies, deceptions and fears of the Beast System.

Jer. 5:31 - "The prophets prophesy falsely, and the priests bear rule by their means; and my people love to have it so: and what will you do in the end thereof?"

WAR AND FEAR

Instilling fear in the minds of the public is an efficient way for government, marketers, and churches to manipulate people. For instance, fear propagated by the politicians makes it possible for them to create wars. Wars are accepted because of fear ... usually unreasonable fear ... perpetrated by psychopaths and believed by cowards and fools. Americans are disgustingly willing to hate anyone that the politicians label "the enemy," and to support the wholesale slaughter of them. So the government sets up a politically-correct program of honoring soldiers who demonstrate the least amount of conscience and the most aptitude to kill, torture and blow up things. They are gladiators who "just do their job" without asking questions ... and receive awards and metals. They become America's "heroes."

Americans seem to be able to fear and hate at the drop of a hat. They have demonstrated their ability to fear and hate Muslims, Russians, Chinese, Liberals, Conservatives, Japs, Germans, Mexicans, and any group that the TV tells them to hate. They fear nonconformity, insurance cancellation, gas prices, "Satan," and bad credit ratings. They fear what they're told to fear. The one thing they don't fear is God, the only One they SHOULD fear. They live in fear of enemies that don't exist. This denudes them and makes them helpless slaves to the shadowy 5% elite who run everything but don't appear on TV. Since these elite are not talked about on FOX news, dumbed-down Americans don't even think about them. People today can only think about things that are shoved at them on a TV or computer screen ... like the face of Goldstein in Orwell's "1984."

FEAR OF RADIATION

Most people do not understand nuclear radiation. That makes it a perfect tool to be used by the government to scare people. People are easily scared by things they don't understand.

After the devastating earthquake and tsunami in Japan recently, and after the initial destruction began to lose entertainment value in the news, TV propaganda switched to focus upon nuclear radiation from the reactor plants damaged in the event. "Experts" are appearing on TV news shows to let Americans know about the many life-threatening dangers of "escaped radiation" from Japan. People in California, Oregon and Washington are getting scared and wondering if they will be "poisoned" by this terrible, and little-understood, enemy called "radiation."

A little common sense and reason might be helpful. But these assets are rare these days. Today we need Galen Winsor again ... but alas, he is no longer with us to educate us and allay our fears. Galen died in 2008, at the age of 82. He was a brave man for standing for truth ... but today few people even know who he was.

Galen was a first-class nuclear physicist, and he was my friend. He stayed in my home often, and many times we talked for hours on end. He taught me about radiation.

We met in 1985 in Phoenix, AZ. I had invited Galen to come and give a presentation to our group. Galen lived in the Tri-Cities, Washington area at the time. We did a lot of brainstorming together. He spoke to several groups, including the Arizona Breakfast Club. I gave Galen an introduction at that event. I liked to introduce him as "the man who eats Uranium."

Galen and I made a video presentation together there in Phoenix before I left, and I have resurrected that video, converted it to DVD, and am now making it available again.

In this way Galen's work can live on.

Later, in Medford, Oregon I began the work of American Christian Ministries. I had Galen come to Medford for more presentations ... and we made a second video.

Galen also visited me here in Idaho on more than one occasion. We talked often over the phone ... usually when I had a question for which I needed his expertise. Now I can't call him for answers ... but his video is still available.

Galen died in 2008 at the age of 82. It is notable, and important to mention at this point, that he did NOT die from so-called "radiation poisoning." After you see his video it will become obvious why this is an important point.

Galen did a good work ... a work that sacrificed the career that he loved. He sacrificed it because truth was more important to him. When the nuclear industry, and his employers, demanded that he stop telling the truth, he chose truth over his career. He had achieved an important position, and was well paid. He gave it up to tell truth to a world drowning in deception from paid-off "experts" who were deceiving the masses.

Galen had been friends with better-known figures like Edward Teller. Strangely, however, these other experts chose not to tell the truth ... even though they knew. So, the work of my friend Galen should not be forgotten. Therefore, I am making it available to the public once again. I owe it to him, and to truth. And now, with Japan's tragedy being exploited by the fear mongering news media it is clearly time to resurrect and publish Galen's gems of truth.

His 90-minute presentation is offered in this month's enclosure. Order it and get the radiation-fear monkey off your back.

I should tell you this: Galen's main objective was to defend the viability of nuclear energy. I am not against that idea, however my main objective is a bit different. My motive is to expose liars and thieves in the Beast System so people can realize that we must look to Christ's Kingship instead of to the Beast System, and that the Beast's deception about nuclear radiation is only one of the Beast's many, many lies from its many, many agents. The more nails I can drive into their coffin, the more I can convince people to not trust the Beast System.

What I can tell you here is that you have absolutely no reason to fear a radiation threat from those damaged reactors in Japan. First of all, the "leaks" are not of sufficient quantity to pose a threat. Secondly, if radiation were as deadly as "experts" are fond of claiming, then everyone in America should have died between 1945 and 1970 ... because the US Government exploded 1050 actual nuclear bombs (big ones) in Nevada, in the Pacific, underwater, underground, and in the atmosphere ... plus two in Japan in 1945. On top of that, Russia and other countries have exploded, to date, another 1000 nuclear bombs. These were actual bombs – not just "leaks." They were big, dirty things – up to 50 kilotons (for comparison, the Hiroshima bomb was only 15 kilotons) with real nuclear contamination ... over 2000 bombs in total. They created billions of times more contamination, radiation and fallout than anything possible from the Japanese reactors. So the "chicken little" people who want you to believe fish are dying in California from radiation from Japan, or that you must run out and get some Potassium Iodide to protect your thyroid, are not even a little credible. You need to know that you are being misinformed.

Hiroshima was rebuilt exactly over "ground zero." Right over the sight of that bomb whose blast killed thousands of people instantly. The new city of Hiroshima was raised an ultra-modern, heavily populated city right on the spot where we are told that radiation poisons the land for many generations and that life cannot continue there. Think about that.

Japan has real problems. They are coping with a real tragedy. On March 11, a huge earthquake and a devastating tsunami ripped Japan apart ... but the nuclear "leak" is a very minor problem in comparison.

There is much more to the story, but you'll need to get the DVD to watch and listen to Galen for the rest of it. Americans have been mis-educated about radiation.

FEAR OF ECONOMIC COLLAPSE

As I mentioned already, people who are uninformed or misinformed are easily scared. I say this, not to insult anyone, but to acknowledge a fact.

The thousands of "experts," talking heads on TV, and Internet economists are running around like little kids shouting about things they have heard but know nothing about. To warn people today that the American economy and banking system is in trouble and may collapse, or that inflation is threatening to destroy our economy, is like an inmate in a prisoner-of-war camp warning his fellow inmates that they are in danger of losing their freedom. It is absurd.

We are being propagandized to worry that the U.S. might lose the blessings of the Constitution, and that the government might lose its ability to provide protection and freedom for Americans. THIS IS LAUGHABLE!

Americans have no economy to lose. They are total slaves to the Beast System. The only economy that could be lost is that of the Beast System itself ... and the politicians and bankers are taking care to see that that doesn't happen. They (not the public) own, control, and benefit from that economy. The American citizens are disinherited slaves and have nothing to say about it. They have nothing to lose because they have nothing of their own.

Again, these scare tactics are figments of imaginations. Americans worry that Muslims, Communists or some outside entity that has been declared to be "terrorists" will upset the American utopian way of debt and slavery. Talk about insanity!

Americans generally know nothing about national economics or the banking system ... because the American system does not teach it. Oh, some folks may think they know something because they have heard that the Federal Reserve is bad, or that bankers are not playing fair. But in terms of dissecting and analyzing the actual reasons why this is so, Americans are literally helpless. They are ignorant ... not because they are unintelligent, but because they are mis-educated. And, yes, many of them are too lazy to investigate.

In any case, they are ignorant of how the national economy works, and how banks work, so they are confused and scared. They are also easily manipulated to blame the wrong people for current economic problems.

The truth is too basic and simple for the minds of mis-educated Americans. Honesty would help too. They've been confused and made to think that economics involves factors that require years of college, and then years on Wall Street to understand it. But in fact, by the time a child learns how to budget his allowance or manage the income from his first job, he knows nearly all he needs to know to understand economics ... unless he wants to learn how to steal, lie and cheat people. For that he will need to go to Princeton, Harvard or Yale and become a banker or a politician. Welcome to modern America.

The liars and thieves soon come into the picture. The child is told that he must have CREDIT in order to live in the modern world. That's when the trouble starts. One lie leads to another lie, and soon he is lost in a sea of confusion. He is mis-educated.

He tries to keep the waves from capsizing his little ship of state ... but Wall Street only gives him navigation plans that he can't decipher. He still gets capsized. It is difficult to correct his thinking after life-long programming about credit and banking. Unlearning is harder than learning.

If a child growing up in today's system is to survive the deceptions of Babylon he must first become convinced that the system always lies to him. In an honest world it would not be necessary. But in today's world it is essential.

The TV and the "experts" tell us that our economy is suffering from "inflation." That is one of their main lies, and it sets their stage to continue removing the lifeblood (money) from circulation. The truth is America is in a depression – the opposite of inflation. America is in debt over her head in both the public and private sectors.

The simple truth is that debt and inflation are mutually exclusive. You cannot have inflation and debt at the same time. Inflation means too much money. Depression means too little money. An inflated economy would eliminate most debt before it began to devalue the dollar. Dollars can be devalued by printing too many, or by acquiring too much debt. The "experts" won't tell you the truth about debt. America's problem is debt and usury. Debt makes prices rise. Debt is making Americans lose their homes, their jobs, their cars and their freedom.

Blame it on "inflation" if you want, but it won't help. Blame it on Mexicans coming across the border to take your job if you want, but it won't help. Blame it on Muslim Sharia Law (that actually prohibits usury) if you want, but it won't help. Blame the Russians and Chinese if you want. It won't help. The problem was created by American idolatry: the worship of false gods and the replacing of God's laws with the Beast's laws. Americans are mis-educated.

WHO DO WE TRUST?

We must maintain vigilance against enemies of truth. That means being honest ... and honestly listening to God as He speaks to us. But unreasoning fear shuts down our ability to listen to God, or to be objective about what He teaches us. It blinds us to reality. This we must avoid. In deed, unreasoning fear is one of the evidences of idolatry and an "unsound mind." It causes men to "flee when no one is pursuing." It turns men into confused weaklings.

Whether it is unreasoned fear of hyped radiation, or cholesterol, or Y2K, or inflation, or CIA-invented "terrorists," or myths like "Satan" and a "Burning Hell," loss of retirement, loss of public image, or just fear of rejection from your peers ... in each case when we let fear or laziness overpower our ability to reason we do ourselves much harm. When we allow this it also erodes our faith in Christ and in truth. It chips at our foundation. We can find ourselves wandering outside the walls of New Jerusalem, unable to find the gates to enter back in ... fearful, and hopeless. In other words, we can lose sight of God in our lives.

Our minds were created and designed by God exactly as He wanted them. That is, He made our minds to work efficiently as long as we don't disable them by idolatry. Remove faith in God from our minds and our minds become defective. They are still active, but they produce defective thoughts. Defective minds ruin the lives of people and cause societies to go astray. Idolatry (i.e., loss of faith in the true God) is man's worst nightmare. Living in that realm becomes hell. In deed, Scripture calls it "death" (I call it "spiritual death" – i.e., alienation from God).

BOTTOM LINE

Sanity (a sound mind) is a precious thing. It is light that dispels darkness; life where there was death; hope where there was despair; faith where there was fear; clarity where there was confusion; strength where there was weakness; sight where there was blindness. It separates us from the dead who walk in darkness. It is "light to them that sit in darkness and in the shadow of death, to guide our feet into the way of peace" (Lk. 1:79).

As I said earlier, my motive is to let people discover life as it is intended for us. I accomplish this, in part, by exposing death (i.e., liars, murderers and thieves) – in other words the realm of darkness (the Beast System).

I offer evidence that we, the living, can walk through the valley of the shadow of death (the Beast System and its walking dead) and fear no evil ... for He is with us (Ps. 23).

People ask me, "What can we do with this information you've given us?" I say YOU CAN LIVE! I say you can walk among the withered and lame. I say death has no power over you. You need not fight against the dead. Jesus said "let the dead bury the dead" (Mtt. 8:22). I say you can "come out from among them, be separate, and touch not the unclean" (2 Cor. 6:17). OUR MISSION IS TO LIVE ... to SHINE as lights. People who see our light ... our faith ... our life ... will see our God, for it is He who illuminates us. IT IS SALVATION.

"1. Yahweh is my light and my salvation; whom shall I fear?" (Ps 27:1)
